This case is a patent infringement dispute between the Plaintiff ADASA Inc. and Defendant Avery Dennison Corporation. You will hear me and the parties refer to the plaintiff as ADASA and the defendant as Avery Dennison or Avery throughout this trial. ADASA is the owner of a United States Patent that protects an invention in the RFID technology space that ADASA has accused Avery Dennison of using without its permission by selling certain RFID tags to its customers. I previously found that some of Avery Dennison's RFID tags do infringe ADASA's patent. You will be asked to determine, based on the evidence presented by both sides, whether an additional group of RFID tags infringes ADASA's patent.

ADASA seeks damages for the alleged unlawful use of its patent by Avery Dennison. The parties disagree about what damages are owed to ADASA, and you will be asked to determine what damages, if any, are appropriate.
